Catch Up with Cong

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. air cavalrymen caught up today with some Viet Cong elements they had chased from the central coast last week and quickly killed 19 and captured eight. The guerrillas were hit in a lightning thrust called Eagle's Claw.

Helicopters bore troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division into the action 20 miles southwest of Bong Son. Rockets and shells pounded the guerrilla hideouts. U.S. casualties were few, but one American helicopter was shot down.

In Saigon, U.S. forces reported another 184 Communists killed by troops and planes, pushing listed Communist losses in men beyond 2,000 in the last two weeks. An American spokesman said these were the highest Red casualty figures of the war.

American Air Force and Navy jets again pounded targets in North and South Viet Nam. A Navy Skyraider became the ninth victim of Communist anti-aircraft defenses since the United States resumed the air war on the North 12 days ago.

The plane was shot down 15 miles north of the 17th Parallel Thursday by heavy flak, an Air Force spokesman said. No parachute was seen by other pilots and the Navy airman was presumed killed.

The Viet Cong shot and killed an American civilian engineer operating a tractor in a jungle clearing at a rock quarry 20 miles northeast of Saigon. His partner escaped from two guerrillas leaped out of spiderholes and opened fire.

LILBOURN -- State Department approval on four projects under the elementary and secondary education act has been given to the Lilbourn-R-IV school district, according to Max Timmons, superintendent.

Timmons said that the district's entitlement under the act for this fiscal year is $149,399. Those projects and amounts which have been approved to date are: a library services and curriculum materials center--$63,828.27. This project will include construction of library facilities as well as equipment and materials and will be built at the Howardville high school; A remedial program for 50 educationally retarded children--$15,025; A cooperative film library--$26,899. The remedial program and the cooperative dental unit project are now being implemented. Two projects have been submitted to the state department but have not been approved. One concerns health, secretarial, and food services. The other remedial program in reading, language arts, and mathematics for students in grades one through nine.

The elementary and secondary education act was written with the goal of helping the educationally deprived child and the funds provided by the act must be used for that purpose.

Vietnamese Sample Humphrey Exuberance

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey made a four-hour tour of improvement projects in the Saigon area today and pronounced the work "very fine."

The exuberant vice president talked with village elders and local chiefs, inspected a variety of improvements, shook hands, voiced a greeting in Vietnamese. One little girl hung back bashfully from the songfest. Humphrey knelt beside her, took her tiny hands in his and brought her into the circle of 20 Vietnamese toddlers.

"One, two, three... one, two, three," he chanted, slapping his hands and bobbing his head. For a few minutes Humphrey's visit to this war-scarred land had the happy look of an American-style political campaign. The vice president, though flushed by the tropical heat, enjoyed himself enormously in his visit with the kindergarten class in a village five miles south of Saigon.

The visit to the newly pacified village of New Prosperity was Humphrey's first stop on a four-

NEW MADRID -- Prospects for establishing a large newsprint manufacturing plant here in the heart of a large supply of cottonwood moved a step closer last night.

An audience, estimated more than 400, attended a meeting in the high school gymnasium, to hear an outline of the proposal, Sam L. Hunter, was master of ceremonies. Mayor Robert Riley gave the address of welcome.

W. R. Phillips Jr., president of the board of directors of the Delta-New Madrid Paper corporation, gave a brief history of the organization. The proposal was outlined by Glen Speidel, Chicago manager-director of the Electric Bond Consultants.

A three-year study has been completed by the firm, disclosing a cottonwood supply in a 150-mile radius for raw materials which the survey showed could produce 400 tons of newsprint per day.

Speidel pointed out that the project calls for an investment of more than $25 million, a plant site of 115 acres, and that the building would take 22 to 26 months to complete.

To assure the plant, a total of $235,000 in common stock at $1 per share, must be sold. The speaker said that new advances in paper making machinery have guaranteed communities against any odor in the air or water pollution of streams.

The speaker said that a study was made of the marketing area and that the sale of newsprint would have a market over a seven state area.

The plant, he said, would employ a minimum of 200 persons with a minimum of outside labor of six to ten.

The plant would increase by 700 the population of the community, provide 200 more households, and an annual increase of personal income of $1,420,000, he said. It would provide 130 additional non-manufacturing jobs, and increase retail sales of the community of $662,000 annually, he predicted.

Hunter commented: "We mean business. We are going to build a paper mill. We cannot afford not to take advantage of this opportunity. We don't have any choice, we must go forward or wither."

Hunter pointed out the declining trend in the county, saying that since 1950 the county has lost 25 per cent of its population, because of low wages, changing farm economy and high taxes.

He added that the sale of homes was larger than at any time in history.

A committee was formed to open at once a campaign for the sale of stock. It is composed of Phillips, Hal Hunter Jr., secretary of the corporation, and F. M. Beal, Jack Carlson, George R. Hartwell, C. E. LaValle Sr., Robert Riley and Sam Hunter Jr., board members.

Projects Approved

BLOOMFIELD -- Bloomfield reorganized school district 14 has been approved to participate in four programs under the elementary and secondary education act. The school has been approved to implement a remedial reading class and to offer extra instruction in elementary mathematics.

An in-service training program has been approved for teachers. At this time a course in remedial reading is being offered by the extension service of the University of Missouri and the Bloomfield school has nine teachers participating in the course.

The elementary school has been approved for a counselor and efforts are being made to employ a qualified person. The school has applied for a nurse.

Shadow Cast over Two Other Labor Union Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sidetracking of the union shop bill casts a shadow over two other measures strongly backed by the AFL-CIO.

The other two would boost the minimum wage and apply it to more workers and increase unemployment compensation payments.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who directed the filibuster which blocked repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, indicated that he might use the same tactics against the other two measures. Section 14B allows states to ban union shop contracts under which covered employees must join the union. Nineteen states ban such contracts.

Appoint New Chief In Crisis

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — President Hector Garcia-Godoy named a new armed forces minister today in an attempt to solve a grave crisis and rioting that has left nine persons dead in two days.

Col. Enrique Perez y Perez, 42, was named to the ministry with the approval of the armed forces. He replaces Commodore Francisco Rivera Caminero, who has been named military attaché in Washington.

The change was announced at the National Palace as a general strike to force out all the Dominican army high command appeared gaining ground in the capital.

Former President Juan Bosch threw his weight behind the general strike.

There were signs that the strike, called Wednesday night by labor leaders of the Dominican Revolutionary party, was spreading.

A widespread strike could seriously affect negotiations between the government and armed forces leaders to solve a grave political-military crisis.

Heavy explosions from what were described as noise bombs and automatic fire resounded throughout the downtown area of Santo Domingo late Thursday night and early today.

Two persons died in Thursday's violence.

During the next five days temperatures are expected to average 4 to 9 degrees above normal.

Highway U.S. Puts Pressure Drive Opens

MALDEN -- A highway 25 improvement meeting brought out more than 100, representing 10 towns and cities along the route from Jackson to the north and Walnut, Ark., to the south.

The meeting resulted in the appointment of a ten-man board of directors, and four officers, who will open a drive for 10,000 members along the route, at a cost of $1 per person.

Membership funds will be used for an advertising program and to contact highway officials to urge immediate action. There were 91 members who signed for memberships at the meeting.

Joe Brasher, Malden, acted as temporary chairman, and he introduced A. C. "Dub" Riley, New Madrid, member of the Missouri State Highway Commission.

The speaker pointed out that the state has left highway 25 out of the picture since the bond issue of the early 1920s was passed, and added, "there has been some little maintenance in certain locations, but not nearly enough."

It was pointed out by those present, that from Jackson to Walnut Ridge that the road is in a bad state of repair with dangerous curves and hills.

A representative from the Arkansas city stated that due to the condition of the highway many of the more than 30,000 citizens living along the highway are forced to take other roads to St. Louis and Little Rock for highway safety.

The delegates from the ten cities were told that only $4,000,000 has been allocated for this road in the next five years, while $70 million was made available for highway 71 in the western part of Missouri.

Representatives were present from each town along highway 25 except Bloomfield, Delta and Dutchman.

Officers chosen to seek improvement for the road were, Brasher, president; Kimbel Swindle, Senath; first vice president; Garland Powell, Jackson; second vice-president; Roy King, Malden, secretary.

U.S. Puts Pressure On North Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is seeking to put diplomatic pressure on North Viet Nam to modify its demand that the Communist National Liberation Front must represent South Viet Nam in any peace negotiations.

President Johnson has sent word to interested foreign governments that the demand made by North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh is wholly unacceptable and has created an obstacle to efforts to arrange a peace conference.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, envoy to the United Nations, said after a two-hour meeting with Johnson Thursday that U.S. policy is flexible on the issue of an NLF role in negotiations. The NLF is the political arm of the Communist guerrilla forces.

"We will bargain on that at the conference table," Goldberg told reporters. But he emphasized that the demand which Ho made public Jan. 28 is unacceptable to the United States, and he made clear it would have to be modified if the issue is to be resolved.

Johnson briefed Goldberg on his meeting in Hawaii earlier this week with the leaders of South Viet Nam, then sent him back to U.N. headquarters in New York to renew his efforts with Secretary-General U Thant and members of the Security Council as well as representatives of other countries to find some way to bring the Vietnamese war to a close.

While Goldberg was meeting with Johnson, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee heard from George F. Kennan, former State Department Soviet affairs expert, in its inquiry into U.S. policy in Southeast Asia.

Both Kennan and Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the committee chairman, expressed fears this week's U.S.-South Vietnamese declaration in Honolulu may have raised an added obstacle to a negotiated peace.

Both men indicated they feel the South Vietnamese leaders are more interested in military victory than in economic, social and humane positions stressed by U.S. officials.

Earlier, Kennan said that adopting a strong defensive position while letting the war simmer might convince the Communists "they cannot dislodge us. If they cannot dislodge us they will have to talk to us, because they want us out."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a Washington news conference Thursday that criticism of Johnson's Viet Nam policies encourages the Communists.

He said Republicans should not join what he called "the appeasement wing" of the Democratic party. He added, "We should be for peace. We should be against appeasement."

Record Toll of 49,000 Traffic Deaths Last Year

CHICAGO AP -- A record toll of 49,000 traffic deaths in the United States last year was reported today by the National Safety Council.

The council said 1.8 million persons suffered disabling injuries in 1965 motor vehicle accidents. The economic loss was calculated at $8.5 billion, $5.5 billion of this in wage losses, medical expenses and overhead insurance costs.

The one bright thread in the dark pattern was the council's assertion that the rate of deaths per 100 million travel miles declined for the first time since 1961—from 5.7 in 1964 to 5.6 last year. This compared with a 1945 rate of 11.3.

Council statisticians computed a 5 per cent rise in the total number of vehicle-miles last year, 880 billion.

Catch Up with Cong

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. air cavalrymen caught up today with some Viet Cong elements they had chased from the central coast last week and quickly killed 19 and captured eight. The guerrillas were hit in a lightning thrust called Eagle's Claw.

American Air Force and Navy jets again pounded targets in North and South Viet Nam. A Navy Skyraider became the ninth victim of Communist anti-aircraft defenses since the United States resumed the air war on the North 12 days ago.

The plane was shot down 15 miles north of the 17th Parallel Thursday by heavy flak, an Air Force spokesman said. No parachute was seen by other pilots and the Navy airman was presumed killed.

The Viet Cong shot and killed an American civilian engineer operating a tractor in a jungle clearing at a rock quarry 20 miles northeast of Saigon. His partner escaped when two guerrillas leaped out of spider holes and opened fire.

Mill Drive Opens

NEW MADRID -- Prospects for establishing a large newsprint manufacturing plant here in the heart of a large supply of cottonwood moved a step closer last night.

An audience, estimated more than 400, attended a meeting in the high school gymnasium, to hear an outline of the proposal. Sam L. Hunter, was master of ceremonies. Mayor Robert Riley gave the address of welcome.

W. R. Phillips Jr., president of the board of directors of the Delta-New Madrid Paper Corporation, gave a brief history of the organization. The proposal was outlined by Glen Speidel, Chicago manager-director of the Electric Bond Consultants.

A three-year study has been completed by the firm, disclosing a cottonwood supply in a 150-mile radius for raw materials which the survey showed could produce 400 tons of newsprint per day.

Speidel pointed out that the project calls for an investment of more than $25 million, a plant site of 115 acres, and that the building would take 22 to 26 months to complete.

To assure the plant, a total of $235,000 in common stock at $1 per share, must be sold. The speaker said that new advances in paper making machinery have guaranteed communities against any odor in the air or water pollution of streams.

The speaker said that a study was made of the marketing area and that the sale of newsprint would have a market over a seven state area.

The plant, he said, would employ a minimum of 200 persons with a minimum of outside labor of six to ten.

The plant would increase by 700 the population of the community, provide 200 more households, and an annual increase of personal income of $1,420,000, he said. It would provide 130 additional non-manufacturing jobs, and increase retail sales of the community of $662,000 annually, he predicted.

Hunter commented: "We mean business. We are going to build a paper mill. We cannot afford not to take advantage of this opportunity. We don't have any choice. We must go forward or wither."

Hunter pointed out the declining trend in the county, saying that since 1950 the county has lost 25 per cent of its population, because of low wages, changing farm economy and high taxes. He added that the sale of homes was larger than at any time in history.

A committee was formed to open at once a campaign for the sale of stock. It is composed of Phillips, Hal Hunter Jr., secretary of the corporation, and F. M. Beaird, Jack Carlson, George R. Hartwell, C. E. LaValle Sr., Robert Riley and Sam Hunter Jr., board members.

Projects Approved

BLOOMFIELD -- Bloomfield reorganized school district 14 has been approved to participate in four programs under the elementary and secondary education act. The school has been approved to implement a remedial reading class and to offer extra instruction in elementary mathematics.

An in-service training program has been approved for teachers. At this time a course in remedial reading is being offered by the extension service of the University of Missouri and the Bloomfield school has nine teachers participating in the course.

The elementary school has been approved for a counselor and efforts are being made to employ a qualified person. The school has applied for a nurse.

Shadow Cast over Two Other Labor Union Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sidetracking of the union shop bill casts a shadow over two other measures strongly backed by the AFL-CIO. The other two would boost the minimum wage and apply it to more workers and increase unemployment compensation payments. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who directed the filibuster which blocked repeal of section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, indicated that he might use the same tactics against the other two measures. Section 14B allows states to ban union shop contracts under which covered employees must join the union. Nineteen states ban such contracts. Two Year Sentence Suspended

BENTON -- Danny Grimes, 20, East Prairie, was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary yesterday in circuit court after pleading guilty to tampering with a motor vehicle.

The sentence was suspended and Judge Marshall Craig placed him on probation for two years pending good behavior.

Grimes was charged with tampering with a 1953 Chevrolet belonging to Roy Oakes in East Prairie on Nov. 5.

James Cox, 41, Sikeston, was sentenced to one year for writing a no account check.

He was placed on probation for one year to make the check good and on good behavior.

Reed Daugherty, Sikeston, was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail for being drunk on public highway.

Katie Moore, St. Louis, was sentenced to one year for writing a no account check.

She was placed on probation for one year pending restitution of the check and good behavior.

Signup 35 Per Cent Completed

BENTON -- Tom Marshall, office manager of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, said that about 35 per cent of the signup for cotton, feed grain and wheat programs, has been completed. The deadline is April 1.

The signup program included 160 for the cotton program, 207 for feed grains 207, and 176 for the wheat program. The final signup program last year was 708 for the feed grains program, 798 for the wheat programs and around 600 for the cotton program.

Forty eight Boy Scouts and Boy Scout leaders were guests at a dinner last night at the Country Club.

Sikeston's three banks, First National Bank, Bank of Sikeston, and Security National Bank were hosts for the fish dinner. A report was given on Operation Breakthrough, a plan to organize several new Scout troops at one time.

The potential troop sponsors are: Concordia Lutheran Church; First Christian Church; New Madrid Rotary Club; New Madrid Jaycees; New Madrid Methodist Church; and the Diehlstadt Baptist Church. Luther Hahs, Cape Girardeau, made a talk on American Heritage to the Okeechobee district session.

Also, discussed, was Operation Goodturn, to be held Saturday by Boy Scouts when they will serve as city officials.

Appoint New Chief In Crisis

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — President Hector Garcia Godoy named a new armed forces minister today in an attempt to solve a grave crisis and rioting that has left nine persons dead in two days.

Col. Enrique Perez y Perez, 42, was named to the ministry with the approval of the armed forces. He replaces Comodoro Francisco Rivera Caminero, who has been named military attaché in Washington.

The change was announced at the National Palace as a general strike to force out all the Dominican army high command appeared gaining ground in the capital.

Former President Juan Bosch threw his weight behind the general strike.

There were signs that the strike, called Wednesday night by labor leaders of the Dominican Revolutionary party, was spreading. A widespread strike could seriously affect negotiations between the government and armed forces leaders to solve a grave political-military crisis.

Heavy explosions from what were described as noise bombs and automatic fire resounded throughout the downtown area of Santo Domingo late Thursday night and early today.

Two persons died in Thursday's violence. CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — A mechanical oil caller being used on the Virgil Rawson farm near here is bringing a protest from some of his neighbors. The mechanical caller rotates and bellows to call his cows home to their barn some two miles from here. Chance of Rain In Bootheel

KANSAS CITY (AP) — There was quite a bit of sunshine over Missouri today, but the weatherman says there will be increasing cloudiness Saturday in the east and south.

He says there is a chance of rain in the extreme south and rain or snow elsewhere late Saturday or Sunday night. No moisture was forecast for the northwest sector.

There won't be much change in temperatures, with the lows generally in the 20s tonight and in the 40s Saturday.

During the next five days temperatures are expected to average 4 to 9 degrees above normal.

Highway Drive Opens

MALDEN -- A highway 25 improvement meeting brought out more than 100, representing 10 towns and cities along the route from Jackson to the north and Walnut, Ark., to the south. The meeting resulted in the appointment of a ten-man board of directors, and four officers, who will open a drive for 10,000 members along the route, at a cost of $1 per person.

Membership funds will be used for an advertising program and to contact highway officials to urge immediate action.

There were 91 members who signed for memberships at the meeting.

Joe Brasher, Malden, acted as temporary chairman, and he introduced A. C. "Duk" Riley, New Madrid, member of the Missouri State Highway Commission.

The speaker pointed out that the state has left highway 25 out of the picture since the bond issue of the early 1920s was passed, and added, "there has been some little maintenance in certain locations, but not nearly enough."

It was pointed out by those present, that from Jackson to Walnut Ridge that the road is in a bad state of repair with dangerous curves and hills.

A representative from the Arkansas state highway department stated that due to the condition of the highway many of the more than 30,000 citizens living along the highway are forced to take other roads to St. Louis and Little Rock for highway safety.

The delegates from the ten cities were told that only $4,000,000 has been allotted for this road in the next five years, while $70 million was made available for highway 71 in the western part of Missouri.

Representatives were present from each town along highway 25 except Bloomfield, Delta and Dutchtown.

Officers chosen to seek improvement for the road were, Brasher, president; Kimble Swindle, Senath; first vice president; Garland Powell, Jackson, second vice-president; Roy King, Malden, secretary.

U.S. Puts Pressure On North Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is seeking to put diplomatic pressure on North Viet Nam to modify its demand that the Communist National Liberation Front must represent South Viet Nam in any peace negotiations.

President Johnson has sent word to interested foreign governments that the demand made by North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh is wholly unacceptable and has created an obstacle to efforts to arrange a peace conference.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, envoy to the United Nations, said after a two-hour meeting with Johnson Thursday that U.S. policy is flexible on the issue of an NLF role in negotiations. The NLF is the political arm of the Communist guerrilla forces.

"We will bargain on that at the conference table," Goldberg told reporters. But he emphasized that the demand which Ho made public Jan. 28 is unacceptable to the United States, and he made clear it would have to be modified if the issue is to be resolved.

Johnson briefed Goldberg on his meeting in Hawaii earlier this week with the leaders of South Viet Nam, then sent him back to U.N. headquarters in New York to renew his efforts with Secretary-General U Thant and members of the Security Council as well as representa-

Record Toll of 49,000 Traffic Deaths Last Year

CHICAGO AP -- A record toll of 49,000 traffic deaths in the United States last year was reported today by the National Safety Council.

The council said 1.8 million persons suffered disabling injuries in 1965 motor vehicle accidents. The economic loss was calculated a $8.5 billion, $5.5 billion of this in wage losses, medical expenses and overhead insurance costs.

The one bright thread in the dark pattern was the council's assertion that the rate of deaths per 100 million travel miles declined for the first time since 1961—from 5.7 in 1964 to 5.6 last year. This compared with a 1945 rate of 11.3. Council statisticians computed a 5 per cent rise in the total number of vehicle-miles last year, 880 billion. Nevertheless, the total of deaths last year was 3 per cent greater than the former record of 47,700 in 1964.

Another deadly record was reflected in the December toll last year when 4,940 persons were killed—10 per cent more than the 4,490 of December 1964.

In terms of deaths per 10,000 registered motor vehicles, the 1965 total of accident deaths was up — from 2.7 in 1964 to 2.9. The council has urged an 18-point national program which Pyle said could slash the annual toll in half.

Search for Bomb Gets Underway off Spain

PALOMARES BEACH, Spain AP -- Submarine search for a missing nuclear bomb got under way today despite choppy seas from a storm which tore down telephone lines and gave U. S. Air Force men at base camp on shore a sleepless night.

The midge submarine Alvin and Alumnaut appeared from shore to be working the sea bottom where the lost nuclear device and other debris from a crashed B52 bomber were believed lying.

Winds hit a maximum of 67 miles an hour Thursday night.

Permanent GI Benefits Bill on Johnson's Desk

WASHINGTON (AP) — A permanent GI benefits bill with an estimated eventual price tag of $500 million a year was on President Johnson's desk today after receiving final congressional approval.

Although the bill carries a higher price tag than the administration had proposed, the President was expected to sign it. It would take effect June 1.

The measure accends education and home-buying aid for all military personnel with more than six months of active duty since Jan. 31, 1955, the date benefits ceased under the Korean GI benefits measure.

Advice - No Solutions for LBJ

NEW YORK (AP) — Pity the poor President. He gets advice by the ton — solutions none. This is Lyndon B. Johnson's dilemma in Viet Nam.

Earnest experts urge one course of action. Other earnest experts urge the opposite — sometimes simultaneously. Even U.S. allies disagree over what the President should do.

Bomb the port city of Haiphong and other military-industrial targets in North Viet Nam, says Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Viet Nam.

That would allow the Viet Cong to roam the countryside, said Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the President's military advisor.

Foggy Collision Fatal

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. AP -- George J. French, 18, of Harviell, and Alton Prevorse, 22, of Timbo, Ark., were killed early today in a head on collision on U. S. 67 about seven miles south of here.

The Highway Patrol said French started to pass another car in fog and collided with an automobile driven by Jerry Reece, 21, of Timbo, brother of one of the victims.

Jerry Reece and a passenger in the French car, Johnny E. Summers, 42, of Harviell, were hospitalized here in serious condition.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Friday, February 11, 1919, Atlantic Ocean: The first marriage to take place on the back of a whale.

It looks as if the effort to repeal section 14b of the Taft-Hartley act is doomed to failure in this session of Congress.

In the first test the forces of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen prevailed. There is no reason to believe that any subsequent efforts will end differently.

The section, which requires a two thirds majority to repeal, permits states to pass right-to-work laws.

Its repeal would hand another chunk of power to union leaders contributing to what already is an imbalance of power in their favor. Greedy union leaders naturally favor a system of compulsory union dues. President Lyndon B. Johnson supports repeal. Missouri's Senators Symington and Long, who also are beholden to the union czars, voted in favor of ending the filibuster.

It is ridiculous that it is necessary for Senator Dirksen to lead a filibuster to prevent repeal of a law which does no more than give each state the right to allow its workers to decide for themselves whether to join a union.

The Senate's energies should be channeled toward effecting union reforms.

The New York transit strike proceeded on a "public be damned" attitude.

Union militancy has spread to government employees, who now feel that they have the right to strike for higher wages and for all the fringe benefits sought in industry.

Ferryman, welfare workers, teachers, motor vehicle operators, grave diggers, firemen, police and transport workers in recent times have used the strike weapon.

Instead of repealing 14b, Congress should devote its time to enacting legislation in the spirit of Calvin Coolidge following the Boston police strike: "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anyone, anywhere, any time."

There shouldn't be either.

The Colonel said: "When a man disagrees with his wife it proves just one thing--he's courageous."

Writing In The Reporter, Max Ascoli says: "Lin Piao describes in full detail the two successive revolutions that China intends to foment in the 'rural areas of the world': the first is national, or rather nationalistic and democratic; the second purely socialist. In the first, all bourgeois and patriotic elements can be used; in the second, they are to be crushed. This is very much what the Maoists did in their own rural areas, when they got the peasants on their side by promising them the land and then took over both the peasants and the land. They are ready to do the same all over the three 'rural areas of the world': Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Our resistance and counteraction are to be welcomed, for thus we shall hopelessly fritter away our strength and our resources."

Many Americans bemoan the fact that the United States Senate is populated by old men. We like it.

In an era of heedless, headlong and often foolish change it is good to have one segment of the federal government willing to question whether something is better just because it is new.

The natural conservatism that comes with age as it is manifest in the Senate suits us fine.

The class of '66 -- Senators up for reelection this year--will be the oldest in many years. Many of them should be re-elected. If all those whose terms expire decide to run again, nearly half--15 of 34--will be 65 or older.

Voluntary retirement is comparatively rare. Only two members of the class of '66--Saltson-stall of Massachusetts, 74, and Anderson of New Mexico, 71--have given any indication that they might not seek re-election.

If these aged Senators worked for a major corporation or under the civil service system, they would now be drawing pensions.

In politics it is different.

Age often means seniority and seniority means power in Congress. The voters have their say but few elections are decided on the issue of age versus youth.

Voters almost always give considerable weight to the power that seniority gives members of Congress. It is unrealistic to ignore it.

The congressional pension law gives the national lawmakers a lucrative cushion in retirement.

Few take advantage of their golden years to quit.

We are happy that they don't.

The pension always is there for them if something goes wrong at the polls.

Highways are changing because of compact cars.

Realizing small cars are here to stay, traffic engineers have begun stretching "no passing"

zones and putting traffic signs closer to the ground.

Highway officials in all the states are painting double no-passing stripes beside center lines for 1,000 feet before hills, as seen from a height of four feet.

That's a half foot lower than the former four-and-a half foot standard. The lower seating level in small cars is the reason--a person driving a small car can't see as far down the road as the driver of a standard-size car.

Another change dictated by the lower seating level of compact cars is highway signs on shorter poles. They are beginning to appear in a few places. It is easy for the driver of a small car to miss a stop sign when it's above his line of sight.

One of the reasons for such changes is accident statistics that indicate that compact car drivers have more serious accidents than those who drive standard cars.

The Illinois Division of Highways found in a special 1961 study that the death rates of both drivers and passengers of small cars were about 60 per cent higher than death rates for drivers and passengers of standard-size passenger cars.

The Connecticut State Police recently conducted experiments which attracted nationwide attention. They rammed compact and standard cars together, and Commissioner Leo J. Mulcahy announced that the experiments proved that small cars are more damage-prone than standard models.

Taking issue with the inference of these results, the Detroit Free Press observed: "We're not sure the findings get anywhere. For, if we assume the necessity of collisions, then every driver should logically try to get a car heavier than his neighbor's--leading in the end to a battle tank with Airfoam upholstery and dual headlights." Maybe so.

We need cars with brakes which get tight when the drivers get tight.

Since 1954, the gross national product in the United States has increased 76 per cent. During the same period, expenditures for advertising have increased 66 per cent.

Advertising has done a better than expected job of stimulating trade and keeping the level of prosperity high. Economists who have studied the relationship between national wealth and advertising have long held that expenditures for advertising should increase at a more rapid rate than the gross national product.

The reason why is not difficult to understand. A rapid increase in national wealth is almost certain to be caused by automation in industry and the creation of new products.

Since advertising itself is a form of automation--this is, automation in selling--it should become an increasingly larger part of the business budget, just as investment in machinery has been increased.

Also, since a dramatic increase in the gross national product is inevitably the result of development of many new products, sales becomes a more important force in economic progress than manufacturing.

New products, however worthy, cannot be sold in great quantity without stepped up advertising, --especially newspaper advertising at the consumer level.

Although advertising has done a remarkable job in fostering continued economic growth, a more vigorous economy could be built by increasing the percentage of national wealth invested in advertising.

TOMORROW FEB. 12--SATURDAY ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY, 1809-1865. Celebrated in Alaska, Calif., Colo., Conn., Del., Ill., Ind., Iowa,

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) -- Of all the great captains of earth the one most affectionately remembered probably is he who was born in a Kentucky log cabin 157 years ago Saturday.

Success came late and death came early to Abraham Lincoln.

There is no explaining his genius. As did those other great captains of pen and sword, William Shakespeare and Joan of Arc, he sprang seemingly from nowhere to immortal fame.

Almost from birth Lincoln appeared likely to wind up an also-ran in life's race.

He was poor and had little formal schooling. He failed in business as a storekeeper. He was unlucky in both love and politics, it seemed.

His youthful sweetheart, Ann Rutledge, died. The first woman he proposed to, Mary Owens, turned him down and explained later: "Mr. Lincoln was deficient in those little links which make up the path of a woman's happiness."

His subsequent marriage to Mary Todd proved a stormy one. He lost more elections than he won. Anticipating defeat in his first race for a seat in the Illinois Legislature in 1832 -- and he did lose -- Lincoln wrote:

"If the good people in their wisdom shall see fit to keep me in the background, I have been too familiar with disappointment to be much chagrined." When his business failed, leaving him debt-ridden, he became a village postmaster. Had he succumbed to his tendency to melancholy and self-doubt, young Abe might well have disappeared into the mists of history, just another obscure frontier failure.

But he persisted. He returned to the study of law and grammar. Slowly his star rose. In 1856 he remarked jokingly during a losing race for senator against Stephen Douglas:

"Nobody ever expected me to be president. In my poor, lean, lank face nobody has ever seen that any cabages were sprouting."

But he was wrong there. Four years later he had become president. And less than five years later, only 56, he was killed by an assassin. But in that brief period he had become the indispensable human fulcrum that kept the American nation from teetering into ruin.

One of those rare men uncorrupted by vast power, Lincoln has been more written about than any other head of state with the possible exception of Napoleon.

But the thing that undoubtedly would please Abraham Lincoln most about his present status is that, of all the giant figures of mankind they read about in their history books, he is the one most loved by children.

They feel that they are struggling alone in a world of foolish grownups, and they sense that he was, too.

HERITAGE DAY, Vandalia, Ill. Abraham Lincoln Birthday Anniversary Program. LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY OBSERVANCE. Gettysburg, Pa.

It was their honeymoon night and the bride had put on a sheer nightgown and crawled into bed -- only to discover that her husband was about to go to sleep on the couch.

"George," she cooed, "aren't you going to make love to me?" "I can't honey," he replied, "because it's Lent." "Why that's awful," she exclaimed, bursting into tears. "To whom, and for how long?"

Harry: "Know why more girls don't take petroleum engineering?"

Larry: "Why?"

Harry: "Cause that curriculum requires six months of

roughnecking."

This is truly the age of miracles. You must know this, if you have listened to recent TV commercials for a new type vanishing cream deodorant, it seems you put it on and the odor remains, but you vanish and no one knows where the smell is coming from.

Binks was busily engaged with a spade in the mud beside his car when a stranger hailed him. "Stuck in the mud?" he asked. "Oh, no," explained Binks cheerfully. "My engine died here and I'm digging a grave for it."

A member of Britain's Parliament visiting a field hospital during the war saw a badly wounded Scots Guardsman.

"When is this man being sent home?" he inquired. "He's not going home," an orderly informed him. "He's going back to the front."

"Back to the front?" exclaimed the visiting VIP. "Why, the man is in terrible shape." "Yes, sir," replied the orderly, "but he thinks he knows who did it."

NOT DEVILS

All those astonishing electronic devices, which produce a wide assortment of miracles in a multitude of industrial operations, have come in for more than their share of fear and criticism based on the premise that they will create unemployment on an impossibly large scale. But -- without minimizing any of the problems which progress inevitably produces -- there is a very different side to this story.

For instance, some little time ago it looked as if two Californians oil fields would soon have to be abandoned because production costs were threatening to rise above the net value of the oil produced. Then the oil company concerned learned of some new electronic equipment that, according to its designers, could handle most manual chores in an oil field. It was installed -- and it is fully living up to the claims. Automatic controls measure and record every barrel of crude produced from each well and when the crude is separated keep accurate track of the gas, oil, water and sediments that result. The information is transmitted automatically to headquarters. So 24 old wells can be kept pumping for some 10 or 15 more profitable years--whereas, without the self-sufficiency and economy provided by electronic equipment, they would have been totally abandoned.

An invaluable resource has been saved. America's oil picture is a bit healthier. And jobs that would otherwise have disappeared with the fields exist for quite a number of people. Electronic devices aren't devils. They open up frontiers of achievement that make the mind reel. We just have to learn how to use them properly.

INEQUITABLE TAX LAW

The industriousness of working one's way through college, preferably by waiting on tables, may enjoy great public esteem, but the law takes a more critical view. According to the Catholic Digest, it taxes the hard-earned income of the college waiter, but leaves untouched the athletic "scholarship" which enthusiastic alumni bestow upon the football hero (and which the law treats as a gift).

SEEK 'MISSING' UNIVERSE

Don't look now, but 90 per cent of the universe is missing.

That's the discrepancy, say astronomers, between the amount of matter so far observed in the stars and galaxies and how much there should be, according to their mathematical computations.

To help find the "missing" matter, which may be in the form of intergalactic gas or electron clouds, NASA has given a $100,000 grant to the University of Michigan to develop the largest satellite yet--one nearly as wide as Ann Arbor itself, the home of the university.

It won't be a solid satellite, of course, but a weblike radio antenna consisting of a central satellite and four satellite satellites connected by nylon filaments. Distance across the web will be about six miles.

The entire affair will spin around its hub once an hour. The effect will be like a searching light sweeping the sky but picking up incoming radio waves instead of sending out light waves.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Hoffa Planning to Create $122 Million Annual Cash Pool

Washington, D. C. -- James Riddle Hoffa simply is not one to be content with a mere leading ulcer as a status symbol.

The diminutive labor leader always thinks big. Now he is planning -- though he has confided only in a few intimates -- to create an annual revolving fund of $122 million to operate out of his marble-coated headquarters here.

Direction and disbursement of such monies would give him absolute control over the entire leadership of the sprawling Teamsters Union -- whether he is in or out of prison.

The technique is simple. Mr. Hoffa plans to "ask" the Teamsters' July 4 quinquennial convention -- now joyously referred to as the freedom rally -- to change the constitution on the collection of Teamsters' dues.

Hoffa, on the theory that he is his union brothers' keeper, wants a national dues checkoff. This would mean that all employers in the land who hire Teamsters, be they in the tiny municipal dog catchers' union or over the road haulers, would take the dues out of 1.7 million unionists' pay and send the money directly to Hoffa's national office instead of to the 900 Teamsters' locals.

This would bring in well over $122 million a year.

In turn, Hoffa's headquarters would take its own national (per capita) tax out of the gold flow and return some of the residual to the locals.

Labor insiders believe this will give the Teamsters' presidential power unmatched in trade union circles -- and that's not easily accomplished.

It means that the locals and their officials would have to look to Hoffa for virtually every penny of income. They could not function off or slowed the dollar repatriation for any length of time.

In turn, it would give the Teamsters' national office a solvency to be envied by the U.S. Treasury Dept. And, judging from the drain Hoffa plans to put on his own internal revenue operations, he will need the cash.

Hoffa is a forward-looking fellow. He knows now he has at least a year of unhampered freedom. The definite word now is that the Supreme Court will not hear his appeal on the jury-tampering conviction until next November. A final decision is not expected until the end of January or mid-February 1967.

Hoffa also is aware that there is no law which can force him to yield the presidency even if he is imprisoned by an unfavorable decision. Neither Taft-Hartley nor the Labor-Management Disclosure Act state that a union official jailed for attempting to influence a jury is ineligible for union office. Thus he is concerning himself with the Teamsters -- and not the U. S. -- statutes.

Those close to him report that he now plans to rewrite whole sections of the union's laws. In addition to centralizing control of all Teamsters' funds, he intends to concentrate power in the Teamsters' International Executive Board -- and then make his political power over the board absolute.

Since he controls the votes of some 1.1 million Teamsters outright (and leaders of the others are expected to be in the van of the stampede to renominate him next July) he will name his own board. Then he will hand out $10,000 and $20,000 annual raises.

Thus he will surround himself with the new class-labor executives who will earn anywhere from $40,000 to $165,000 a year. Typical will be his home local's vice president, Frank Fitzsimmons, the chap he plans to make national trustee if the Supreme Court orders him to prison.

This fellow, a devoted toweler, also is the Teamsters' 13th national vice president. His sundry positions pay him a minimum of $40,000 a year. As a vice president he will get a $10,000 annual raise, and he may get a national organizing assignment. This would bring him $25,000 more -- or about $75,000 a year.

There are others, however, in really top brackets. The 12th national vice president, Anthony (Pro) Provenzano for example. His income from several union posts nominally brings him $145,000 annually. Now he is slated for a $20,000 yearly increase. There are expenses, too, which make it livable.

Other members of the board will earn anywhere from $30,000 to $47,000 annually without counting the income from their locals. So it is unlikely there will be any opposition -- especially since Hoffa hopes to sweeten their pensions. So rich or poor, free or not, it's good to have a $100 million kitty.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Friday, February 11, 1919, Atlantic Ocean: The first marriage to take place on the back of a whale.

It looks as if the effort to repeal section 14b of the Taft-Hartley act is doomed to failure in this session of Congress.

In the first test the forces of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen prevailed. There is no reason to believe that any subsequent efforts will end differently.

The section, which requires a two thirds majority to repeal, permits states to pass right-to-work laws.

Its repeal would hand another chunk of power to union leaders contributing to what already is an imbalance of power in their favor. Greedy union leaders naturally favor a system of compulsory union dues, President Lyndon B. Johnson supports repeal. Missouri's Senators Symington and Long, who also are beholden to the union czars, voted in favor of ending the filibuster.

It is ridiculous that it is necessary for Senator Dirksen to lead a filibuster to prevent repeal of a law which does no more than give each state the right to allow its workers to decide for themselves whether to join a union.

The Senate's energies should be channeled toward effecting union reforms.

The New York transit strike proceeded on a "public be damned" attitude.

Union militancy has spread to government employees, who now feel that they have the right to strike for higher wages and for all the fringe benefits sought in industry.

Ferryman, welfare workers, teachers, motor vehicle operators, grave diggers, firemen, police and transport workers in recent times have used the strike weapon.

Instead of repealing 14b, Congress should devote its time to enacting legislation in the spirit of Calvin Coolidge following the Boston police strike: "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anyone, anywhere, any time."

There shouldn't be either.

The Colonel said: "When a man disagrees with his wife it proves just one thing--he's courageous."

Writing in The Reporter, Max Ascoli says: "Lin Piao describes in full detail the two successive revolutions that China intends to foment in the 'rural areas of the world': the first is national, or rather nationalist and democratic; the second purely socialist. In the first, all bourgeois and patriotic elements can be used; in the second, they are to be crushed. This is very much what the Maoists did in their own rural areas, when they got the peasants on their side by promising them the land and then took over both the peasants and the land. They are ready to do the same all over the three 'rural areas of the world': Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Our resistance and counteraction are to be welcomed, for thus we shall hopelessly fritter away our strength and our resources."

Many Americans bemoan the fact that the United States Senate is populated by old men. We like it.

In an era of heedless, headlong and often foolish change it is good to have one segment of the federal government willing to question whether something is better just because it is new.

The natural conservatism that comes with age as it is manifest in the Senate suits us fine.

The class of '66 -- Senators up for re-election this year--will be the oldest in many years. Many of them should be re-elected. If all those whose terms expire decide to run again, nearly half--15 of 34--will be 65 or older.

Voluntary retirement is comparatively rare. Only two members of the class of '66--Saltston-stall of Massachusetts, 74, and Anderson of New Mexico, 71--have given any indication that they might not seek re-election.

If these aged Senators worked for a major corporation or under the civil service system, they would now be drawing pensions.

In politics it is different.

Age often means seniority and seniority means power in Congress. The voters have their say but few elections are decided on the issue of age versus youth.

Voters almost always give considerable weight to the power that seniority gives members of Congress. It is unrealistic to ignore it.

The congressional pension law gives the national lawmakers a lucrative cushion in retirement.

Few take advantage of their golden years to quit.

We are happy that they don't.

The pension always is there for them if something goes wrong at the polls.

Highways are changing because of compact cars.

Realizing small cars are here to stay, traffic engineers have begun stretching "no passing"

zones and putting traffic signs closer to the ground.

Highway officials in all the states are painting double no-passing stripes beside center lines for 1,000 feet before hills, as seen from a height of four feet.

That's a half foot lower than the former four-and-a half foot standard. The lower seating level in small cars is the reason--a person driving a small car can't see as far down the road as the driver of a standard-size car.

Another change dictated by the lower seating level of compact cars is highway signs on shorter poles. They are beginning to appear in a few places. It is easy for the driver of a small car to miss a stop sign when it's above his line of sight.

One of the reasons for such changes is accident statistics that indicate that compact car drivers have more serious accidents than those who drive standard cars.

The Illinois Division of Highways found in a special 1961 study that the death rates of both drivers and passengers of small cars were about 60 per cent higher than death rates for drivers and passengers of standard-size passenger cars.

The Connecticut State Police recently conducted experiments which attracted nationwide attention. They rammed compact and standard cars together, and Commissioner Leo J. Mulcahy announced that the experiments proved that small cars are more damage-prone than standard models.

Taking issue with the inference of these results, the Detroit Free Press observed: "We're not sure the findings get anywhere. For, if we assume the necessity of collisions, then every driver should logically try to get a car heavier than his neighbor's--leading in the end to a battle tank with Airfoam upholstery and dual headlights." Maybe so.

We need cars with brakes which get tight when the drivers get tight.

Since 1954, the gross national product in the United States has increased 76 per cent. During the same period, expenditures for advertising have increased 66 per cent.

Advertising has done a better than expected job of stimulating trade and keeping the level of prosperity high. Economists who have studied the relationship between national wealth and advertising have long held that expenditures for advertising should increase at a more rapid rate than the gross national product.

The reason why is not difficult to understand. A rapid increase in national wealth is almost certain to be caused by automation in industry and the creation of new products.

Since advertising itself is a form of automation--this is, automation in selling--it should become an increasingly larger part of the business budget, just as investment in machinery has been increased.

Also, since a dramatic increase in the gross national product is inevitably the result of development of many new products, sales becomes a more important force in economic progress than manufacturing.

New products, however worthy, cannot be sold in great quantity without stepped up advertising, --especially newspaper advertising at the consumer level.

Although advertising has done a remarkable job in fostering continued economic growth, a more vigorous economy could be built by increasing the percentage of national wealth invested in advertising.

FEB. 12--SATURDAY

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S

BIRTHDAY, 1809-1865. Celebrated in Alaska, Calif., Colo., Conn., Del., Ill., Ind., Iowa,

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) -- Of all the great captains of earth the one most affectionately remembered probably is he who was born in a Kentucky log cabin 157 years ago Saturday.

Success came late and death came early to Abraham Lincoln.

There is no explaining his genius. As did those other great captains of pen and sword, William Shakespeare and Joan of Arc, he sprang seemingly from nowhere to immortal fame.

Almost from birth Lincoln appeared likely to wind up an also-ran in life's race.

He was poor and had little formal schooling. He failed in business as a storekeeper. He was unlucky in both love and politics, it seemed.

His youthful sweetheart, Ann Rutledge, died. The first woman he proposed to, Mary Owens, turned him down and explained later:

"Mr. Lincoln was deficient in those little links which make up the path of a woman's happiness."

His subsequent marriage to Mary Todd proved a stormy one.

He lost more elections than he won. Anticipating defeat in his first race for a seat in the Illinois Legislature in 1832 -- and he did lose -- Lincoln wrote:

"If the good people in their wisdom shall see fit to keep me in the background, I have been too familiar with disappointment to be much chagrined."

When his business failed, leaving him debt-ridden, he became a village postmaster. Had he succumbed to his tendency to melancholy and self-doubt, young Abe might well have disappeared into the mists of history, just another obscure frontier failure.

But he persisted. He returned to the study of law and grammar. Slowly his star rose. In 1856 he remarked jokingly during a losing race for senator against Stephen Douglas:

"Nobody ever expected me to be president. In my poor, lean, lank face nobody has ever seen that any cabbages were sprouting."

But he was wrong there. Four years later he had become president. And less than five years later, only 56, he was killed by an assassin. But in that brief period he had become the indispensable human fulcrum that kept the American nation from teeter-tottering into ruin.

One of those rare men uncorrupted by vast power, Lincoln has been more written about than any other head of state with the possible exception of Napoleon.

But the thing that undoubtedly would please Abraham Lincoln most about his present status is that, of all the giant figures of mankind they read about in their history books, he is the one most loved by children.

They feel that they are struggling alone in a world of foolish grownups, and they sense that he was, too.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY OBSERVANCE. Gettysburg, Pa.

It was their honeymoon night and the bride had put on a sheer nightgown and crawled into bed -- only to discover that her husband was about to go to sleep on the couch.

"George," she cooed, "aren't you going to make love to me?" "I can't honey," he replied, "because it's Lent."

"Why that's awful," she exclaimed, bursting into tears. "To whom, and for how long?"

Harry: "Know why more girls don't take petroleum engineering?"

Larry: "Why?"

Harry: "Cause that curriculum requires six months of

roughnecking."

This is truly the age of miracles. You must know this, if you have listened to recent TV commercials for a new type vanishing cream deodorant. It seems you put it on and the odor remains, but you vanish and no one knows where the smell is coming from.

Binks was busily engaged with a spade in the mud beside his car when a stranger hailed him. "Stuck in the mud?" he asked. "Oh, no," explained Binks cheerfully. "My engine died here and I'm digging a grave for it."

A member of Britain's Parliament visiting a field hospital during the war saw badly wounded Scots Guardsmen.

"When is this man being sent home?" he inquired. "He's not going home," an orderly informed him. "He's going back to the front."

"Back to the front?" exclaimed the visiting VIP. "Why, the man is in terrible shape." "Yes, sir," replied the orderly, "but he thinks he knows who did it."

NOT DEVILS All those astonishing electronic devices, which produce a wide assortment of miracles in a multitude of industrial operations, have come in for more than their share of fear and criticism based on the premise that they will create unemployment on an impossibly large scale. But -- without minimizing any of the problems which progress inevitably pro-

The Modern Christian

CAN ANGER HELP THE CHRISTIAN?

When we speak of anger, we are referring to the instinctive urge to suppress and repel whatever is hostile to us. This force in man, when well-ordered, is a tremendous help in attaining lofty objectives.

Too often, anger is seen merely as a liability, and a negation it will be, unless a man reconstructs its force to a commitment of value. The Christian ideal is not nonchalant resignation. The Lord himself is a striking example of manly anger. He was certainly not a piece of driftwood that floated with every popular current of the day.

"He overturned the tables of the money-changers," because He was angry and did not want the present state of conditions to continue. We must distinguish in anger between emotional agitation stirring within us and the conscious consent to it. If man allows anger to control him, he is in a state of disorder. Anger is for man, and not the other way around.

To be stirred to greater anger over the mistakes and faults of others than our own, which are no less serious, is the example of a man controlled by anger. A wholesome sense of humor which enables us to see ourselves in the mistakes of others is a marvelous thing. We need to accept ourselves in weakness and in strength. We need to assess the force of anger that lies within us and channel it well, and surely, not against wife or husband, children or friends.

Anger need not be an inordinate urge to crush what we do not like. Rather, anger can help us to overcome the difficult and arduous. Anger controlled is the path to Christian maturity. Questions? Write: Rev. T. Sted, 217 West Center Street, Sikeston, Missouri.

The Modern Christian

CAN ANGER HELP THE CHRISTIAN?

When we speak of anger, we are referring to the instinctive urge to suppress and repel whatever is hostile to us. This force in man, when well-ordered, is a tremendous help in attaining lofty objectives.

Too often, anger is seen merely as a liability, and a negation it will be, unless a man reconstructs its force to a commitment of value. The Christian ideal is not nonchalant resignation. The Lord himself is a striking example of manly anger. He was certainly not a piece of driftwood that floated with every popular current of the day.

"He overturned the tables of the money-changers," because He was angry and did not want the present state of conditions to continue. Missouri Valley Basketball

Cincinnati and Bradley are the new co-leaders in Missouri Valley basketball and St. Louis made it a three-way race by taking its fifth straight victory and its first on the road.

It was an unusual night because three Valley teams lost at home in four games. Each of the three clubs which lost at home recently lost its top scorer for the season through scholastic ineligibility.

Tulsa, without sophomore Elbridge Webb, was beaten 69-63 by St. Louis, Drake, without Bob Netolicky, lost to Louisville 57-53, North Texas, without Willie Davis, was beaten 102-90 by Bradley.

Cincinnati was the only home winner and the Bearcats took no chances in belting Wichita 93-76. Cincy shot a sizzling 66 per cent the first half and 56.5 for the game.

"We need a spark out there," said Cincy Coach Tay Baker before the game.

The Bearcats had four of them with Roland West scoring 23, Don Rolfe 22, Mike Rolfe 19 and John Howard 18.

Wichita had beaten Cincy five times in a row going into the game.

Bradley won even without its top scorer, 6-7 Joe Allen, who was in a court fight over child support payments. He is the father of 22-month-old twins. If he isn't on hand Saturday night at Tulsa, it might hurt Bradley's chances. Tulsa fell from the lead and stands 4-3 against Bradley's 6-3.

In another big one Saturday, Cincinnati, 6-3, is at Drake, 5-4. St. Louis, 5-4, is at North Texas, 0-8, and Louisville, 4-5, goes to Wichita, 4-4, in other games Saturday. The St. Louis-NTS game is on afternoon TV.

St. Louis used its delay game to overcome foul trouble in the first half.

Tulsa's Julian Hammond, national leader in field shooting accuracy, hit 10 of 13 and led both teams with 24 points.

Wade Houston had 24 and Westley Unsell 18 for Louisville, while Erwin Coxied Drake with 22.

Wichita's Jamie Thompson hit 28 and widened his Valley scoring lead over Rich Parks of St. Louis, 23.4 to 20.2. Hammond is next at 19.9. Unsell has 17.8, Warren Armstrong of Wichita and Don Rolfe of Cincy both 17.4.

ESSEX -- Poplar Bluff upset the number one seeded Sikeston Bulldogs 46-34, here last night for the first upset in the Richland ninth grade invitational tournament.

Sikeston came out the first quarter and raced to a quick eight-two lead before Poplar Bluff began to run the shoot and tied the Bulldogs 9-9 at the end of the first period. At the opening of the second period Poplar Bluff pulled out to a four point lead and led the rest of the game.

Sikeston, hitting only 26 percent from the field and 52 percent from the free throw lane, was off on their shooting and had to make most of their points under the basket with Farris and Towns rebounding and putting the ball in the basket for a score.

The Bulldogs will play Richland Sat. night in the third place game.

In the second game of the evening Kennett beat host Richland 49-47, to win a berth in the finals.

Game Decided 106-105

After Nine Overtimes

MAYSVILLE, KY. (AP) -- There's nothing in Kentucky record books to equal the basketball game between Millersburg Military Institute and Maysville St. Patrick.

It went nine overtimes Wednesday night before Millersburg won 106-105 on Van Davis' 15-foot jump shot with 20 seconds remaining.

The teams were tied 74-74 at the end of regulation play. Then they played eight three-minute extra periods.

The gymnasium was half full when the game started but was packed when it ended 3 hours and 20 minutes later.

In the all-important world of family relations, three other words are almost as powerful as the famous "I love you."

They are, "Maybe you're right."

Clay, Gets Reclassification Papers

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) -- It looks like heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay, the nation's most famous draft reject, may serve in the armed forces after all.

Clay, who was floored twice before by the mental test, said Thursday night that he had gotten the reclassification papers. "Under new standards given us by the Army," said the chairman of his Louisville draft board, "I don't see any reason why Clay won't be acceptable for the draft."

The 24-year-old heavyweight champion, now training for a title bout March 29 against Ernie Terrell in Chicago, said:

"I don't know what all this stuff means. I just saw they said I was considered okay for the draft. I don't know what happens now."

"I just roll with the punches," Clay could be called as early as next month. But J. Allen Sherman, chairman of Clay's draft board, said in Louisville:

"There's no way of knowing if Clay would be in our March quota. It would be pure speculation at this time."

The Louisville board meets against next Thursday to consider reclassification.

"The Army now says it will accept a high school graduate who scored more than 16 points (on the mental exam)," Sherman said. Clay meets both requirements," he said.

After Clay flunked the mental exam twice in January 1964, he was classified 1-Y and not eligible for the draft. But the increased demands of the war in Viet Nam have forced the Selective Service to lower its standards.

Thousands of others across the country who were previously in the 1-Y classification also are eligible now.

It is possible Clay might be in basic training by the time the date for the March 29 bout with Terrell rolls around.

Terrell could not be reached for comment Thursday night. He will be 27 in April and thus beyond the age limits of the present draft calls.

Players Sign For Trout Estimated $52, 000 Each

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
What is the worth of a baseball player who batted .302, hit 24 home runs and drove in 88 runs last year?

About $52,000, say the Pirates, Braves, Reds, Indians and Red Sox.

That's the average estimated 1966 salary of five star outfielders who signed contracts Thursday — Roberto Clemente, Hank Aaron, Vada Pinson, Rocky Colavito and Tony Conigliaro.

The .302 average, 24 homers and 88 RBI represent their average performance in 1965, but individually they stood out even more:

Clemente, Pirates, won the National League batting championship for the third time and second year in a row, hitting .329. He also rapped 10 homers and drove in 65 runs.

Aaron, Braves, led the NL in doubles with 40 while batting .318, hitting 32 homers and knocking in 89 runs.

Pinson, Reds, finished the season with a 27-game batting streak, longest in the NL in 1965. During the streak he batted .372 and wound up at .305. He homered 22 times and drove across 94 runs.

Colavito, Indians, topped the American League with 108 RBI while hitting .287 and 26 homers.

Conigliaro, Red Sox, was the AL's home run leader, youngest ever in either league, with 32. He batted .269 and drove in 82 runs.

Conigliaro, at 21 the youngest of the five, accordingly will be the lowest paid of the five. He is expected to receive about $25,000 while Colavito's salary is put at $68,000, Aaron $65,000, Clemente $60,000 and Pinson $40,000.

Another slugger, Chicago Cubs outfielder Billy Williams, also signed his contract. Terms were not disclosed. Williams, 27, batted .315 and hit 34 homers last year. He had 108 RBI.

Several other notables signed for the 1966 season. Included were Baltimore's Wally Bunker and Sam Bowens, rookie stars of 1964 who slumped badly last season.

Bunker dropped from a 19-5 record and AL Rookie Pitcher of the Year to 10-8 while outfielder Bowens skidded from 22 homers and 71 RBI to seven homers and 20 RBI.

Dick Radatz, Boston's huge relief pitcher who also signed, also slumped last year. He won nine games and lost 11 for a 3.92 earned run average after compiling a 16-9 and 2.29 record the year before.

Football Cards As Coach

ST. LOUIS (AP) -- Charley Winner, like always, inherited another tough job Thursday: making the St. Louis Cardinals National Football League champions.

He made it clear his idea of a solution was hard work, which he intends to pass on to his players.

Winner was the surprise selection by co-owners Charles and William Bidwill as head coach for a team that disappointed with a 5-9 record for fifth place in the Eastern Division last season.

"We can win here, but it won't be easy," Winner said. "It will take hard work on everybody's part."

"We're going to go to work the first day of camp, so the players will have to be ready when they report. If they're not, they'll pay the price."

Winner comes to the Cardinals after 12 years as an assistant coach with the Baltimore Colts of the Western Division. He is 41.

The Colts won three division titles and two championships during that time, but the one they lost this year may have been Winner's best coaching job. When Baltimore lost its two quarterbacks because of injuries Winner's defensive unit rose to the occasion and almost snared the title anyway.

Before that, the 5-foot-7 Winner, charged around linemen as a halfback at Washington University of St. Louis under Coach Weeb Ewbank, now his father-in-law.

Winner signed a two-year pact with the Cardinals. He wants Cardinals' defensive coach Chuck Drulis back and wanted to talk to assistants Ray Prochaska and Fran Polsfoot about staying on.

Guards Give Up Puerto Rico Plans

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Plans for summer training in Puerto Rico by the 1st Battalion, 140th Infantry of the Missouri National Guard have been called off. The battalion is headquartered here.

The battalion commander, Lt. Col. O. T. Dalton of Charleston, received official notice that the trip was canceled last week-end at a meeting in Jefferson City with the state adjutant general, Maj. Gen. L. B. Adams, Jr. The battalion was to have trained in Puerto Rico July 24 to Aug. 7.

The only explanation as to why the trip was canceled was that plans for Guardsmen from Puerto Rico to train in Michigan this summer also had been dropped, Maj. James R. Crites of Cape Girardeau, executive officer, said.

Since the Puerto Rican guardsmen will be training on the island this summer, there won't be enough accommodations to serve the needs of the units in the 1st battalion, Maj. Crites said.

The original plans called for an exchange of National Guardsmen for summer field training this summer. Members of a unit in the Puerto Rican National Guard were to be flown to Michigan, then the same planes were expected to fly the 1st Battalion from St. Louis to Puerto Rico.

The 1st Battalion includes units in Cape Girardeau, Charleston, Jackson and St. Louis. They train together as a fighting unit during summer field training.

The latest word is that the unit here will train at Camp Ripley Minnesota July 17-31, Maj. Crites said.

Seek Recovery Of $2 Million

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Twenty-two churches in 11 states have gone to federal court in an effort to recover $2.3 million in church bonds on which they say they sold but weren't paid for.

The parties to the action include the West End Church of Christ in St. Louis, Mo., the Vaughan Hill Church of Christ in Wood River, Ill., and the West End Church of Christ at Spencer, Okla.

Documents filed in the U.S. clerk's office reflect that $5.3 million worth of bonds were issued by the churches since June of 1965. About $3 million worth have been recalled.

The suit names four defendants: Glen V. Paden, Johnson County, Tex.; J. B. Walling and L.

"Am I Covered?"

"When Can I Get The Money?"

From experience, we know those are the first two questions that are asked after a loss.

To make certain that the answers will be satisfactory mean that a customer has been sold the right kind of insurance in a dependable company. That's the only kind that we sell.

Rik Leslie GR 1-4114

217 Tanner Sikeston, Mo.

We don't want all the business—Just Yours

W. McKnight, Fort Worth, Tex., and World Oil and Gas of Delaware, Fort Worth.

The complaint alleges that the churches gave bearer bonds to Paden, who was to find buyers to produce money for church building projects. It says Paden in turn delivered them to the other defendants.

The bonds were delivered with the promise of prompt payments but payment has not been made," it says.

It alleges that Walling and World Oil sold about $200,000 worth of the bonds at 10 per cent discount and "have misappropriated all or part" of the money.

The petition further states that bonds worth $750,000 went to the Homestead Fire Insurance Co. of Pine Bluff, Ark., which then unlawfully deposited $425,000 worth with the United Benefit Insurance Co. of Omaha, Neb.

The effect, the complaint said, was to acquire a stock interest in the two insurance firms.

It said the Nebraska commissioner of insurance has refused to approve the dealings and his action has in effect frozen bonds in Texas, Arkansas and Nebraska.

Judge Sarah Hughes granted a temporary injunction Friday restraining the Pine Bluff insurance firm from releasing its portion of the bonds.

In an answering document, Paden said he agreed to assign to the plaintiffs all his assets except exempt property.

The complaint seeks to make the other defendants pay the churches for the bonds.

Guards Give Up Puerto Rico Plans

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Plans for summer training in Puerto Rico by the 1st Battalion, 140th Infantry of the Missouri National Guard have been called off. The battalion is headquartered here.

The battalion commander, Lt. Col. O. T. Dalton of Charleston, received official notice that the trip was canceled last week-end at a meeting in Jefferson City with the state adjutant general, Maj. Gen. L. B. Adams, Jr. The battalion was to have trained in Puerto Rico July 24 to Aug. 7.

The only explanation as to why the trip was canceled was that plans for Guardsmen from Puerto Rico to train in Michigan this summer also had been dropped, Maj. James R. Crites of Cape Girardeau, executive officer, said.

Since the Puerto Rican guardsmen will be training on the island this summer, there won't be enough accommodations to serve the needs of the units in the 1st battalion, Maj. Crites said.

The original plans called for an exchange of National Guardsmen for summer field training this summer. Members of a unit in the Puerto Rican National Guard were to be flown to Michigan, then the same planes were expected to fly the 1st Battalion from St. Louis to Puerto Rico.

The 1st Battalion includes units in Cape Girardeau, Charleston, Jackson and St. Louis. They train together as a fighting unit during summer field training.

The latest word is that the unit here will train at Camp Ripley Minnesota July 17-31, Maj. Crites said.

Cause dismissed by the Plaintiff without prejudice.

Seek Recovery Of $2 Million

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Twenty-two churches in 11 states have gone to federal court in an effort to recover $2.3 million in church bonds on which they say they sold but weren't paid for.

The parties to the action include the West End Church of Christ in St. Louis, Mo., the Vaughan Hill Church of Christ in Wood River, Ill., and the West End Church of Christ at Spencer, Okla.

Documents filed in the U.S. clerk's office reflect that $5.3 million worth of bonds were issued by the churches since June of 1965. About $3 million worth have been recalled.

The suit names four defendants: Glen V. Paden, Johnson County, Tex.; J. B. Walling and L.

W. McKnight, Fort Worth, Tex., and World Oil and Gas of Delaware, Fort Worth.

The complaint alleges that the churches gave bearer bonds to Paden, who was to find buyers to produce money for church building projects. It says Paden in turn delivered them to the other defendants.

The bonds were delivered with the promise of prompt payments but payment has not been made," it says.

It alleges that Walling and World Oil sold about $200,000 worth of the bonds at 10 per cent discount and "have misappropriated all or part" of the money.

The petition further states that bonds worth $750,000 went to the Homestead Fire Insurance Co. of Pine Bluff, Ark., which then unlawfully deposited $425,000 worth with the United Benefit Insurance Co. of Omaha, Neb.

The effect, the complaint said, was to acquire a stock interest in the two insurance firms.

It said the Nebraska commissioner of insurance has refused to approve the dealings and his action has in effect frozen bonds in Texas, Arkansas and Nebraska.

Judge Sarah Hughes granted a temporary injunction Friday restraining the Pine Bluff insurance firm from releasing its portion of the bonds.

In an answering document, Paden said he agreed to assign to the plaintiffs all his assets except exempt property.

The complaint seeks to make the other defendants pay the churches for the bonds.

Peace Scare Can Upset Stock Market

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A peace scare can upset the delicate balance of the stock market. But the real thing — actual peace negotiations — would have only passing and relatively minor effect on the general economy. Prosperity at home isn't at stake. Most business leaders have stressed before — and will be saying again privately in the wake of the Tuesday turmoil on the stock market — that the economy is too large and too well-based at the moment for peace talks aimed at ending the Viet Nam war to require more than readjustments. And these the economy could take in stride, industrial leaders stress.

Some defense orders might be canceled. Some military spending might be foregone. But the major outlays for defense still would stay high.

And the civilian economy — the really big thing — would be freed of some of the threats now sighted. These include the possibility of higher taxes if the Viet Nam war gets still more expensive, the chance of official controls being imposed on wages and prices, or the fear of a war-nourished inflationary spurge.

The stock market has been called a barometer of the course the economy may be taking six months hence. But in the matter of peace scares or war scares it usually looks more like a thermometer of emotional confusion.

The Tuesday performance was an example. A report that North Viet Nam asked India to seek a peaceful solution of the war sent a spasm through the market. Trading was too swift for the high-speed tickers to handle. Stocks were dumped — especially those of companies with defense orders. The thinking of traders apparently was that stock prices had been pushed to current heights only in the belief that the war would be expanded rather than ended. The market turned around just as fast when the reports proved to be the usual propaganda moves of North Viet Nam with small prospects of getting anywhere. The market finally closed higher than it had the day before.

The emotional selling had furnished opportunities for bargain hunters to get some sound stocks cheap. It also caused some worrying about the psychological effect of such market lurches on the general public.

But analysts taking the longer view doubt that many citizens — and certainly few industrial leaders — would view peace negotiations as anything but an opportunity for the general economy to go on expanding as it has been for five years now.

Virginia City, Nev., with a population of less than 1,000, once had a population of 30,000 in the 1870s during the Comstock lode gold and silver strike. There were six churches and 100 saloons. In one year, 1878, mining production was $36 million. A great fire destroyed the town's buildings in 1875.

#16 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area

Saluting: First Church of the Nazarene

John D. Rhame
Pastor

The First Church of the Nazarene, Sikeston, Missouri was organized in the year of 1918 and since that time has witnessed marvelous growth numerically, financially and spiritually. In fact, this church has been instrumental in organizing the Sikeston Eastside Church of the Nazarene.

Since the organization of the church the following have served as pastors; Revs. S. B. Dameron, J. L. Cox, John A. Duncan, C. F. Transue, J. W. Hoffert and the present pastor Rev. John D. Rhame. All have had a part in the success of this organization. Under the leadership of the present pastor the church became the first church on the Missouri District of its size to bring home the Evangelistic Honor Roll Award and for the past two years has been the first church on the district to pay their district and college budgets in full. When Bro. Rhame arrived they had a sizable deficit financially but at the present everything is taken care of with a sizable amount in the treasury. They have recently completely remodeled the sanctuary and air conditioned the church and the parsonage.

This church continues to move on under present leadership with growth in all areas being witnessed and the present pastor has not only provided wonderful leadership in the local congregation but is an asset to the community in which he is serving.

Peace Scare Can Upset Stock Market

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A peace scare can upset the delicate balance of the stock market. But the real thing — actual peace negotiations — would have only passing and relatively minor effect on the general economy.

Prosperity at home isn't at stake. Most business leaders have stressed before — and will be saying again privately in the wake of the Tuesday turmoil on the stock market — that the economy is too large and too well-based at the moment for peace talks aimed at ending the Viet Nam war to require more than readjustments. And these the economy could take in stride, industrial leaders stress.

Some defense orders might be canceled. Some military spending might be foregone. But the major outlays for defense still would stay high.

And the civilian economy — the really big thing — would be freed of some of the threats now sighted. These include the possibility of higher taxes if the Viet Nam war gets still more expensive, the chance of official controls being imposed on wages and prices, or the fear of a war-nourished inflationary spurge.

The stock market has been called a barometer of the course the economy may be taking six months hence. But in the matter of peace scares or war scares it usually looks more like a thermometer of emotional confusion.

The Tuesday performance was an example. A report that North Viet Nam asked India to seek a peaceful solution of the war sent a spasm through the market. Trading was too swift for the high-speed tickers to handle. Stocks were dumped — especially those of companies with defense orders. The thinking of traders apparently was that stock prices had been pushed to current heights only on the belief that the war would be expanded rather than ended.

The market turned around just as fast when the reports proved to be the usual propaganda moves of North Viet Nam with small prospects of getting anywhere. The market finally closed higher than it had the day before.

The emotional selling had furnished opportunities for bargain hunters to get some sound stocks cheap. It also caused some worrying about the psychological effect of such market jitteriness on the general public.

But analysts taking the longer view doubt that many citizens — and certainly few industrial leaders — would view peace negotiations as anything but an opportunity for the general economy to go on expanding as it has been for five years now.

Virginia City, Nev., with a population of less than 1,000, once had a population of 30,000 in the 1870s during the Comstock lode gold and silver strike. There were six churches and 100 saloons. In one year, 1878, mining production was $36 million. A great fire destroyed the town's buildings in 1875.

Electric house heating, modern as tomorrow, is easy to install, provides room-by-room temperature control, requires little maintenance.

#16 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area

Saluting: First Church of the Nazarene

John D. Rhame
Pastor

The First Church of the Nazarene, Sikeston, Missouri was organized in the year of 1918 and since that time has witnessed marvelous growth numerically, financially and spiritually. In fact, this church has been instrumental in organizing the Sikeston Eastside Church of the Nazarene.

Since the organization of the church the following have served as pastors; Revs. S. B. Dameron, J. L. Cox, John A. Duncan, C. F. Transue, J. W. Hoffert and the present pastor Rev. John D. Rhame. All have had a part in the success of this organization. Under the leadership of the present pastor the church became the first church on the Missouri District of its size to bring home the Evangelistic Honor Roll Award and for the past two years has been the first church on the district to pay their district and college budgets in full. When Bro. Rhame arrived they had a sizable deficit financially but at the present everything is taken care of with a sizable amount in the treasury. They have recently completely remodeled the sanctuary and air conditioned the church and the parsonage.

This church continues to move on under present leadership with growth in all areas being witnessed and the present pastor has not only provided wonderful leadership in the local congregation but is an asset to the community in which he is serving.

FCC Debates Its Role In CATV

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Federal Communications Commission went into closed session Thursday to debate its role in controlling Community Antenna Television, a fast-growing by-product of television that has become increasingly controversial in the broadcasting industry.

The special meeting—expected to be the first of several—was not a hearing. There were no witnesses, and nobody in the room except the seven commissioners and their staff.

A commission source said he doubted there would be any public announcement about today's discussions. It was not expected that the FCC would officially divulge anything until it has reached a final decision on how much to regulate CATV.

The result, sources close to the commission said, is expected to be a decision to control all 1,600 CATV systems in the nation—including the more than 1,000 that operate merely by erecting a master antenna outside a town to pull down available television signals and transmit them by cable into the homes of fee-paying subscribers.

The commission decided last spring to assume control of the 450 or so CATV operations that use microwave relay systems—already controlled by the FCC -- to relay the programs of distant television stations to their master antennas.

At the heart of the controversy between broadcasters and CATV interests is the so-called "carriage and non-duplication" requirement now in effect.

Aimed at protecting television stations, this requirement dictates that a microwave-served CATV system must carry all local channels to the limits of its channel capacity, and black out all programs from distant stations that duplicate the programs of local stations for 15 days before and after local broadcasts.

The commission begins consideration of new regulations with a 93-page recommendation from its staff, urging it to impose tight restrictions on CATV operators for the next five years.

But that recommendation FCC sources indicated today, is expected to be revised by the seven commissioners.

change.
Eventually the country will abandon use of English — type money — pounds, shillings and pence — and go to all dollars and cents.
The dollar, the name of the unit chosen, will be equivalent to $.12 in U.S. money.
New Australian bills have been printed in denominations of 1, 2, 10 and 20 dollars. New coins of 1, 2, 5, 10, 20 and 50 cents, 600 million of them, have been minted.
The old currency and coins gradually will be withdrawn as they reach banks. The currencies are interchangeable—for example, a 10-shilling note equals the new Australian dollar.
The move to simpler coinage follows the decision to make the Australian pound now $2.24—equal two Australian dollars, and the shilling worth 10 cents.
Among the problems are conversion of 500,000 business machines from pounds, shillings and pence to dollars and cents.

The government is footing this bill, estimated at $67 million.
Another is coin collectors. Orders for mint sets of the coins have been rolling in for months.
One dealer alone asked for 20,000 sets.
The government says it will be able to take care of the numismatists in about a year. Sets are expected to sell for about five times face value.

Painting's Models
When Willard painted his famous "Spirit of '76," his father was the model for the central figure; Hugh Mosher, a soldier-friend, posed for the rifle player; and the son John H. Devereux became the drummer boy.

Fred Struwe, a local builder, says during the recent heavy fog while placing the roof on a house on Lake street, the fog was so thick that he nailed several shingles in the thick fog before he found it was not the sheathing. Believe it or Not.

Announcement was made yesterday of the change in ownership of the Russell Brothers Farm Implement Co. The new concern will be called the Sikeston Tractor and Implement Co., and will operate in the Russell's quarters on North Ranney. William Scott and Edgar Robertson will serve customers, showing them the company's complete line of tractors.

Workmen began Wednesday morning to raze the home of Mrs. Ada Lennox, 214 North Kingshighway, preparatory to building a new house in its place. The work is being done under the direction of W. L. Hughes and his son, Lynn Hughes, contractors of Jonesboro. Ark. The new residence will be a two-story structure of tile and stucco. Five rooms and a bath on the first floor will be occupied by Mrs. Lennox and Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher. Upstairs, there will be a three-room apartment with a bath and private outside entrance.

They say they are moving in or moving out and that they only need these items for "half an hour."

Please, Ann, print this letter. Millions of people learn from your column and it would help us hardware store folks a lot if the public learned something about this subject. -- DAILY READER

Dear Daily: The hardware store is the nearest thing to the old cracker barrel, family style grocery store left in America.

People think of the small independent hardware dealer as a friend. They forget he's in business. So, folks -- this is to remind you that your old Uncle Joe may be a doll of a guy but he's got to make a living. So buy something from him. Will you please?

Dear Ann Landers: I have six children from three years of age to 15 years of age. They are growing up without a father. No, my husband is not dead, and we are not divorced, but we might as well be for all the help I get from him.

It is hard to believe that a man would pay more attention to his dog than he does to his own kids but that's the way it is at our house. My husband walks the dog every night and takes him hunting, but he never takes his kids any place.

My 15-year-old son is 6'11" and I have to stand on a chair to hit him. When I tell his father to discipline the boy he says, "When I come home from work I want peace and quiet. I don't want to punish the kids for things they did when I wasn't even there."

Can you say something so my husband will see that he is not living up to his responsibilities? He thinks he is a good father because he pays the bills and doesn't run around all night. I need your help. --MARRIED WIDOW

Dear Married: There is more to being a father than biology. Men who ignore their children not only fail them but they cheat themselves. In later life when your husband would like a little attention from his children they will ignore HIM.

Be fair but firm with your children and do your best without the help you should be getting. If it's any comfort I can tell you you are not alone living with your problem.

Dear Ann Landers: My son and his wife are very much in love but they can't seem to get along. Last year Melvin left his wife and came home six times. After a few days they make up and he goes back to her.

Melvin is spoiled but I am the one who spoiled him, which is why I let him come home whenever he feels like it. I want their marriage to work, Ann. What should I do? --MOTHER WHO CAN'T SAY NO

Dear Mother: Stop making it so convenient for Melvin to flee from his responsibilities. If he didn't have mama to run to he'd stay home and solve his problems like a man.

Open Door Policy for married children is one reason for the high divorce rate. Parents who provide an escape hatch for their kids do them no favor.

Do you feel let at ease... out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Many puffballs have white flesh and are edible until the flesh begins to be colored or corky in texture. Some edible puffballs contain enough edible white flesh to feed a family.

Here and There Repeal of Fox Tongue Law Urged

NORTH PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Members of the Rhode Island Association of City and Town Clerks have urged repeal of a law which requires them to remove the tongues of foxes brought to them by hunters seeking a $3 state bounty.

NEW YORK (AP) — A survey by the American Newspaper Publishers Association shows that 130 newspapers in the United States, Bermuda, Puerto Rico and the West Indies raised their newsstand price to 10 cents last year. At the end of the year, the survey showed, 951 daily papers sold for a dime.

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The No. 2 XB70A research plane has reached a speed of 2,000 miles an hour at 70,000 feet altitude for the third time.

Alvin S. White piloted the aircraft with copilot Joseph F. Cotton. The flight was made to test the handling characteristics at three times the speed of sound and to study the effects of 600-degree air-friction heat on the skin of the plane.

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Pop-up targets that shoot back are providing a new test for the infantryman's speed, dexterity, accuracy and skill.

The Army said the silhouette-type targets are connected to a pellet gun which fires with great accuracy at soldiers who fail to hit the targets within two seconds from the time they pop up.

If the target is hit, the pellet gun is deactivated until the next silhouette appears.

Soldiers in the target area wear protective masks over the eyes and face while firing at the experimental devices. There have been no injuries, the Army said.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australia's banks were closed today. When they open again on Monday, it will be a whole new world — a world of dollars and cents.

The change to the decimal system, for which Australia has been preparing for two years, is not without problems.

But the government reckons that the four-day bank holiday plus an intensive public educational campaign should keep confusion to a minimum. Although all banking business starting Feb. 14 will be done in dollars, other businesses have up to two years to make the change.

Eventually the country will abandon use of English - type money — pounds, shillings and pence — and go to all dollars and cents.

The dollar, the name of the unit chosen, will be equivalent to $1.12 in U.S. money.

New Australian bills have been printed in denominations of 1, 2, 10 and 20 dollars. New coins of 1, 2, 5, 10, 20 and 50 cents, 600 million of them, have been minted.

The old currency and coins gradually will be withdrawn as they reach banks. The currencies are interchangeable-for example, a 10-shilling note equals the new Australian dollar.

The move to simpler coinage follows the decision to make the Australian pound now $2.24—equal two Australian dollars, and the shilling worth 10 cents.

Among the problems are conversion of 500,000 business machines from pounds, shillings and pence to dollars and cents. The government is footing this bill, estimated at $67 million.

Another is coin collectors. Orders for mint sets of the coins have been rolling in for months. One dealer alone asked for 20,000 sets.

The government says it will be able to take care of the numismatists in about a year. Sets are expected to sell for about five times face value.

The Prayer

For Today From The Upper Room

This is the message which you have heard from the beginning, that we should love one another. (1 John 3:11, RV)

PRAYER: Give us, O God, a fresh realization of the meaning of love as revealed in the life and teachings of Jesus. So, whatever our lot, may our daily actions be a visible and effective translation of that word into meaningful service. In the Master's name. Amen.

Veteran Publisher Says Many Papers are Dull

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — A leading publisher, describing journalism as a frustrating and intoxicating mistress, lamented today that "too many issues of too many newspapers are just plain dull, dull, dull."

Garden Cowles, editor-in-chief of Cowles Communications received the ninth William Allen White Foundation citation for journalistic merit. In a speech prepared for the annual White memorial lecture, Cowles said:

"Too many newspaper editors today are too careful, too cautious, too fearful of being controversial, too worried about ruffling the hair of some readers. I don't think any man can become a great editor unless he is willing to become meaningfully involved in the important issues of his community, his state, the nation and the world. And he needs to care passionately."

Cowles is president of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, which his father bought about the time Cowles was born. His brother, John, is president of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

Cowles said he is perplexed that "big and important editorial material usually appears first in some leading magazine," and referred to Ted Sorenson's book on Kennedy, the byline stories of the astronauts and Truman Capote's book "In Cold Blood." Magazines are willing to pay big prices for such material he said "but if the top newspaper in each of the largest 50 markets should band together to go after these high-interest features, they could outbid any magazine."

The White award to a Kansas editor went to Roy F. Bailey, former publisher of the Salina Journal. Bailey was unable to be present because of illness.

The presentations honor William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, who died in 1944.

Peace Officers Get Some Chilling News

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Law enforcement officers, fighting an uphill battle against crime, got some chilling news the other day from the Supreme Court.

The reason for the fingernail biting: the court is going to weigh the constitutionality of undercover agents getting the goods on narcotics peddlers in their own homes without search warrants.

It may not matter, when the justices hand down their decision, that dope pushers prefer to pursue their trade in their kitchens and garages.

What may matter very much is that the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution assures them — and all Americans — the right to be secure in their homes against "unreasonable searches and seizures."

And, in a practical sense, what certainly matters to federal narcotics agents and to local law officers across the land is that hundreds of arrests have been made under circumstances much like those in the case at hand—Duke Lee Lewis vs. the United States of America.

"Dope peddlers don't like to do their business in the open," explained a spokesman at the Federal Bureau of Narcotics. "They prefer the sanctity of their own home."

The spokesman, who discussed the attack on narcotics without commenting on the court's action, didn't have to explain why the federal agent who visited Lewis at his home in the Roxbury section of Boston in 1964 posed as a narcotics buyer.

He had identified himself as a narcotics agent and produced a search warrant, no sale would have taken place and he would not have been invited back to buy more marijuana later. The agent did not have a search warrant.

Thus the constitutional question is put squarely by Lewis' lawyer: "Can a federal officer avoid the necessity of obtaining a search warrant and gain entrance to the home of one suspected of a crime by disguising himself for the purpose of soliciting a crime and obtaining evidence to be used against the owner?"

When Lewis appealed his conviction under the federal narcotics law to the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston three judges flatly rejected his Fourth Amendment argument.

"The happy days for law violators that this claim would produce are not to be," they said.

But the Supreme Court, which has ruled on several Fourth Amendment cases with mixed results, may use the Lewis case as a vehicle for giving greater strength to this Bill of Rights protection.

Then law-abiding Americans and dope peddlers alike will have new reason to echo these words of the 17th century English jurist Sir Edward Coke: "Man's house is his castle, and one's home is his safest refuge."

Veteran Publisher Says Many Papers are Dull

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — A leading publisher, describing journalism as a frustrating and intoxicating mistress, lamented today that "too many issues of too many newspapers are just plain dull, dull, dull."

Garden Cowles, editor-in-chief of Cowles Communications received the ninth William Allen White Foundation citation for journalistic merit. In a speech prepared for the annual White memorial lecture, Cowles said:

"Too many newspaper editors today are too careful, too cautious, too fearful of being controversial, too worried about ruffling the hair of some readers. I don't think any man can become a great editor unless he is willing to become meaningfully involved in the important issues of his community, his state, the nation and the world. And he needs to care passionately."

Cowles is president of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, which his father bought and the time Cowles was born. His brother, John, is president of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

Cowles told of his successes in 40 years of journalism, which includes establishment of Look and Family Circle magazines and the San Juan (Puerto Rico) Star and the purchase of two newspapers in Florida. He listed as failures two magazines he founded—Flair, a fashion and arts publication, and Quick, a pocket-size newsweekly.

He said he has reached these conclusions about journalism: "The tremendous asset of daily newspapers overall forms of communication is their role of public responsibility."

"Radio and television inform within a dramatic, popular and limited scope, but their primary motivation is entertainment."

"Magazine inform, stimulate thought and entertain, again within the scope of their facilities and the intervals at which they are published."

"Daily newspapers not only inform and entertain, they are invested with responsibility for truth, fairness, balance, completeness and newness, coupled with their responsibility as the monitor and conscience of their communities and the nation."

Responsible newspapers have a public character, Cowles said. "Those which lack this public character, or shun it, ignore their greatest asset and this will eventually show up in the balance sheet."

He said too many newspapers still don't do an adequate job of digging in their own communities "for the fascinating things and rapidly changing developments going on in the fields of education, medicine, science and the arts."

Newspaper make-up too often is left in the hands of people who may not know much about typography "and the thousand one method for making pages look readable and exciting."

"If newspapers were as well edited and as well printed as I think they could be, particularly the great Sunday newspapers, then I doubt whether Life or Look and other leading magazines could have attained their present size and strength. . . I am afraid newspaper publishers feel it isn't too important how their product looks and feels. But it is important. Magazines have found this out."

Cowles said he is perplexed that "big and important editorial material usually appears first in some leading magazine," and referred to Ted Sorenson's book on Kennedy, the byline stories of the astronauts and Truman Capote's book "In Cold Blood." Magazines are willing to pay big prices for such material he said "but if the top newspaper in each of the largest 50 markets should band together to offer these high interest features, they could outbid any magazine."

The White award to a Kansas editor went to Roy F. Bailey, former publisher of the Salina Journal. Bailey was unable to be present because of illness.

The presentations honor William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, who died in 1944.

PERMANENT

Passed last year by the Senate and early this week by the House in different forms, the compromise bill scooted through the Senate Thursday by vote of 99 to 0 and was whisked to the President without a dissent after a voice vote in the House.

The administration had suggested that benefits be limited to men who serve in combat areas, instead of covering all personnel regardless of where they put in their military time.

The estimated cost of the administration bill was $150 million a year.

The cost of the program is expected to level off at around $500 million annually after five years. Its first-year cost was estimated at $335 million.

Most of the money would be for educational benefits on the basis of one month of schooling for each month of service, up to 36 months or four normal years of college study. Beneficiaries could select their own school, within limits, and would not have to be high school graduates.

Educational benefits would be paid directly to the veteran at the rate of $100 monthly for full-time schooling for a single person and $150 for those with two or more dependents. Smaller allotments would be paid to students who attend school less than full-time, but nothing would be allowed for less than half-time students.

The schooling could be spread over a period of eight years. Veterans who have financed their own schooling since their discharge would not be reimbursed.

However, they would be eligible for private home loans up to $7,500 underwritten by the government or direct home loans up to $17,500 if private financing was not available.

Former chairman of the Atomic Energy Committee Adm. Lewis L. Strauss tells about a time he ordered breakfast in a Des Moines hotel and asked the attractive waitress for "comb honey" with his toast. She smiled agreeably and made a notation on her order pad. The breakfast came through soon in fine order—complete with a cellophane-wrapped comb.

Peace Officers Get Some Chilling News

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) -- Law enforcement officers, fighting an uphill battle against crime, got some chilling news the other day from the Supreme Court.

The reason for the fingernail biting: the court is going to weigh the constitutionality of undercover agents getting the goods on narcotics peddlers in their own homes without search warrants.

It may not matter, when the justices hand down their decision, that dope pushers prefer to pursue their trade in their kitchens and garages.

What may matter very much is that the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution assures them -- and all Americans -- the right to be secure in their homes against "unreasonable searches and seizures."

And, in a practical sense, what certainly matters to federal narcotics agents and to local law officers across the land is that hundreds of arrests have been made under circumstances much like those in the case at hand -- Duke Lee Lewis vs. the United States of America.

"Dope peddlers don't like to do their business in the open," explained a spokesman at the Federal Bureau of Narcotics. "They prefer the sanctity of their own home."

The spokesman, who discussed the attack on narcotics without commenting on the court's action, didn't have to explain why the federal agent who visited Lewis at his home in the Roxbury section of Boston in 1964 posed as a narcotics buyer.

If he had identified himself as a narcotics agent and produced a search warrant, no sale would have taken place and he would not have been invited back to buy more marijuana later. The agent did not have a search warrant.

Thus the constitutional question is put squarely by Lewis' lawyer: "Can a federal officer avoid the necessity of obtaining a search warrant and gain entrance to the home of one suspected of a crime by disguising himself for the purpose of soliciting a crime and obtaining evidence to be used against the owner?"

When Lewis appealed his conviction under the federal narcotics law to the U.S. Circuit Court in Boston three judges flatly rejected his Fourth Amendment argument.

"The happy days for law violators that this claim would produce are not to be," they said.

But the Supreme Court, which has ruled on several Fourth Amendment cases with mixed results, may use the Lewis case as a vehicle for giving greater strength to this Bill of Rights protection.

Then law-abiding Americans and dope peddlers alike will have new reason to echo these words of the 17th century English jurist Sir Edward Coke: "Man's house is his castle, and one's home is his safest refuge."

DIETING TIPS
Dieting seems to be an American pastime these days. Young and old, slim and overweight, Americans seem to concentrate on the size of their waistlines.

To help supply some nutritional guidelines on this important pastime, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has these suggestions:

Select a varied diet that contains the different kinds of foods important for health -- milk, meat (or alternates), fruits, vegetables, and whole-grain or enriched or restored cereals and bread. Choose the foods with fewer calories in each of these groups. For instance, skim milk provides fewer calories than whole milk.

Prepare and serve foods in ways that do not add calories. Avoid fried foods, rich sauces, gravies, salad dressings, rich desserts, and so forth. Reduce the amount of food eaten.

Take smaller servings. Avoid snacking and between meal eating, unless such foods are planned as part of the total allowance of calories. Take some exercise regularly to increase your expenditure of calories and keep the body physically fit.

These simple rules should assist you in planning a diet which will not only help you lose pounds, but will also supply you with good nutritious foods which help keep your body physically fit.

Where do you go from here? The retirement years should represent years of happy leisure, but often they're accompanied by boredom and restlessness. Sometimes they are years fraught with fear, or loneliness. Yet they can become wonderfully fulfilling and golden when faith abides. Your church or synagogue not only offers spiritual nourishment that is needed by healthy people of all ages. It also can offer stimulating companionship, and a sense of real purpose. Strength, courage, happiness are the gifts of deep religious faith. Worship together this week at your church or synagogue.
